LOST MINER IS BEING SOUGHT IN MOUNTAINS

Like their savage ancestors, they fear superstition and will not venture near it.

The mine, sought so earnestly and tragically, was located and worked by a Dutchman more than a half century ago. He used to come from the hills with gold laden bags, and, after buying supplies, slipped into the hills again.

After one trip, the Dutchman disappeared and prospectors from all parts of the west started hunting for his mine. It has been reported found a thousand times, causing new gold rushes, but time always proved the error of such reports. Not even the approximate location of "The Lost Dutchman" is known.

DIDN'T WANT TO STOP

David Price, 7, of Los Angeles has always been careful in traffic, but he had both legs broken by an auto as he lay in bed. Someone released the brakes on this car, causing it to back down hill, crashing into the bedroom of David's home and hitting his bed.

'WATER SPOUT' CREATES HAVOC IN CLEVELAND

Telephone and telegraph companies reported hundreds of miles of communication lines were down in the outlying districts.

The storm lashed the city for nearly 30 minutes before its fury was spent. It sped up the eastern Lake Erie shores towards Conneaut and Ashtabula which reports its arrival shortly after noon. Reports said that area felt the force of the cyclonic winds in the same manner as Cleveland.

As reports trickled through the suburban districts, it was estimated that the property damage would mount into thousands of dollars.

Power lines were shattered for a while and local radio stations reported they were shut out for nearly ten minutes as power went off.

In the downtown area, hundreds of cars were abandoned at street intersections as motors refused to carry on through the lashing winds. Tops were torn away and scattered along the streets. Storm sewers were unable to accommodate the heavy flow of water and curbs were running brim-full and overflowing into store fronts.

VAULT TO GUARD NATION'S TIME

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(UP)—A special vault is being constructed underground at the Naval Observatory here to house the clocks which keep the nation's time.

It will be a vault within a vault in reality. The inner vault will be constructed of hollow tile made so that hot water can be run through it in order to keep a standard of temperature at 85 degrees. There will be an 18 inch air space between the inner vault and the outer one, which will probably be constructed of stone or cement. Both vaults will be placed below the frost line.

By the time the new clock vault is constructed the Navy hopes to have two more "Shortt" clocks. The clocks now in use have been telling the country what the time is for the past 30 years and, while still in good running order, will not suffer from the augmentation of two new clocks.

This picture shows the chimes being overhauled for the addition of the twenty-eighth bell—Michigan's contribution to the carillon. One extra chime, not the gift of any state, will be known as the Washington birthday bell. The chimes are being assembled by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

GATTY-POST TURN PLANE TOWARD ASIA

tinuously in their effort to set a 10 day round the world record.

The fliers landed at the airport on the outskirts of the Soviet capital at 5:45 p. m. yesterday (8:48 a. m. C. S. T.) They instructed mechanics to overhaul and refuel the plane, then proceeded to Moscow, where they were guests of local organizations.

They ate a leisurely nine course Russian dinner, beginning with caviar and ending with champagne.

Post said he and Gatty probably would remain about an hour at Novosibirsk and then proceed on toward Irkutsk, with a possible second stop at Krasnoyarsk. They are following the Trans Siberian railway, the most direct route over northern Asia.

Their route across Asia was expected to bring them to the Pacific above Vladivostok, near Habarovsk, whence they planned to follow the coast to the Bering strait. They expect to fly across to Alaska and from there southeast across Canada and the United States.

EXPERTS UPSET OLD THEORIES ABOUT TOBACCO

MADISON, Wis., June 26.—(UP)—Samples of 60 tobaccos were burned here by University of Wisconsin horticulturists in an experiment which today upset previous theories regarding their burning qualities.

The test was conducted by William B. Ogden, instructor, and Franklin S. Kenika, assistant. As a result they're satisfied that leaf thickness has nothing to do with longer burning.

Despite its northern location, Wisconsin is one of the important states in production of cigar tobacco.

Dealers in leaf tobacco previously believed that thinner leaves are grown in the northern than in the southern tobacco sections of Wisconsin and that the thinner leaves burn longer.

The tests proved this belief in error. Instead they found that the better burn cannot be associated with any difference in leaf thickness but is due to some other factor which they hope to learn by further tests.

Samples of the same crop from 40 southern and 24 northern farms were obtained from the Cooperative tobacco pool which markets most of the Wisconsin production. Average measurements of leaf thickness in inches were found to be 0.0032 for the southern and 0.0038 for the northern samples.

In the measurement for "burn," the northern leaf averaged 20.3 seconds, but the southern leaf only 8.7 seconds, indicating a distinctly superior "burn" in the former.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Foss and sons and Gilbert May are at Camp Radford in the San Bernardino mountains with boys of the 4-H club.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gardner and their guest, Miss May Hemphill, with Willard Bybee and Henry Chance, were on a fishing trip to Hodges lake Tuesday and Wednesday.

A grave near the village of Egtved, has revealed that girls of those days bobbed their hair, wore short skirts that barely came to their knees, used rouge and lipstick of a sort, and donned flashing ornaments to lure the attentions of men.

NO FOOLING

MILWAUKEE.—Gerald McCullen, 30, walked into a saloon here and held up the bartender and three customers. The four men dropped to the floor at the command "Hands up!" A fourth customer, however, noticed the "red" that McCullen was carrying. He looked phoney to him, so he grabbed Mr. McCullen and overpowered him. The gun proved to be a toy pistol.

SAN CLEMENTE PUNCH BOARDS HARD TO FIND

Trying to find a punch board in San Clemente today is like hunting a needle in the well known haystack—only worse—for there aren't any punch boards there.

Following yesterday's militant announcement of Ole Hanson, founder and builder of San Clemente, that he intended to fight punch boards and vending machines to a finish, the boards were removed from sight.

The ordinance authorizing boards and vending machines on payment of a fee does not go into effect for 30 days, so the operators evidently decided it would be better to keep them from public view.

Hanson declared today that a mass meeting at which he will present his opposition to the boards and machines, will be held in the Spanish Village about the middle of next week.

"We will not tolerate slot machines and punch boards in San Clemente," Hanson said today. "There has never been a machine in the history of the community and we don't propose to have any now."

"I intend to carry the matter to the supreme court if necessary and will enlist the aid of all people opposed to gambling. I believe that the state gambling law covers the case and that we will win out."

JAMES CAWTHON DIES IN NIGHT

Stricken with a sudden heart attack while preparing to retire, James S. Cawthon, 57 years old and an officer in the Tustin Presbyterian church, died last night at his home in Tustin before the arrival of the family physician, who had been hastily summoned. He had been connected with the Santa Ana Register for the past 10 years in the circulation department and appeared to be in the best of health, according to members of his family, when he returned to his home last night. So far as could be learned he had never had a previous heart attack.

The deceased, who had lived in Orange county for the past 12 years, 10 of them in Tustin, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary D. Cawthon, six daughters, Mrs. Agnes Bacon and Mrs. Gertrude Miller, Santa Ana; Mrs. Marriam Roberts, Bell; Mrs. Lorraine Edwards, Tustin; and Miss Ruth Cawthon, of Tustin, and a son, K. J. Cawthon, of Tustin.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday in the Smith and Tutthill chapel.

BOYS TO RETURN FROM 'Y' CAMP

Preparatory to closing the first period of Camp Osceola, the Y. M. C. A. summer camp, Boys Secretary D. H. Tibbals of the local 'Y' left for the resort today to handle business details in connection with the departure of the Anaheim-Orange group that enjoyed the outgoing period. Approximately 75 boys from Fullerton, under the leadership of Archie J. Raltt, will move into camp next Monday for the second period.

Reports from the camp indicate an unusually fine season this year. Weather conditions have been ideal and the camp has progressed without serious accidents or sickness.

Older boys from Santa Ana will occupy the camp for the period starting July 14 and from the advance enrollment it is believed that the camp capacity will be taxed. More than 60 boys have already enrolled and Tibbals reports that he is preparing for at least 70 members.

GROUP RETURNS FROM 4-H CLUB MOUNTAIN CAMP

Fifty-nine boys and girls, members of various Four-H clubs of Orange county, returned Wednesday night to their homes after attending the annual club camp at Camp Radford in the San Bernardino mountains. The camp this year was operated in conjunction with clubs from Los Angeles county. There were 61 boys and girls from that area under the direction of Farm Advisor Sanborn, Assistant Farm Advisor Eric Eastman, assisted by club leaders, had charge of the Orange county group.

Girls of the West Orange club returned with the silver "Victory" trophy awarded to the club for its place in the annual competition. This trophy must be awarded three times to become the permanent property of a club.

The Garden Grove club won the silver bud vase awarded for club stunts that formed a part of the evening entertainment program.

Instruction and entertainment formed the basis of the programs arranged for the four day outing. The entire group in camp was divided into tribes for the various athletic contests. These contests included baseball games, relay races, a swimming meet and a fire lighting contest with buttons being awarded for first, second, third and fourth places in the competition. Hikes and fishing trips added to the enjoyment of the campers.

Woodbridge Metcalfe, state extension forester, attended the camp and assisted with the evening programs in addition to giving instruction in forestry. J. L. Hewett, of the Orange county horticultural commissioner's office, conducted classes in botany and entomology.

Thunder Storm Brings End To Excessive Heat

Oh what is so rare as a day in June?

Comes the answer loud, clear and with a ring of finality—a day in June when the temperature reaches 104 in Santa Ana and is climaxed by a thunder shower that records .03 of an inch of rain in the official gauge at Hill and Sons.

That is rare. In fact it is news and something to write home about, but it happened yesterday. Lowering skies finally brought a welcome relief from a steadily increasing heat when a brisk downpour swept the city.

Yesterday's shower brought the seasonal rainfall total up to 11.42 of an inch. The total last year at this time was 11.85 inches. Incidentally the shower broke the three day heat wave with the mercury hovering about 86 degrees all morning today.

FALL WHILE RIDING IS FATAL TO GIRL

Goldie Winklepleck, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude F. Winklepleck, of South Bristol near Edinger, street, died at 12:35 a. m. today at the Orange County hospital, from injuries received early yesterday when a horse fell on her, crushing her.

The girl was riding the horse near her home when it reared up and fell over backwards on her. The girl kept Miss Winklepleck from freeing herself from the animal and she was pinned underneath him.

In an unconscious condition she was taken to the hospital, where medical aid was given, but she died without regaining consciousness.

The body was removed to the Smith and Tutthill funeral parlors, where funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery. A coroner's inquest will not be held.

PLAN TO WELCOME CHARLES TIDBALL

Plans are being made by the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. for a welcome home to Charles Tidball, a local man prominent in Y affairs of Central Europe. Tidball, who is a brother of Glen Tidball, of the Excelsior creamery, is expected to arrive in this city on Monday for an extended vacation. It is the first time he has returned from Europe in more than five years.

He entered Y. M. C. A. work during the World War and so distinguished himself that he was retained by the European organization and has traveled over the entire continent as official controller of Y finances.

Tidball has been in direct touch with European politics and business affairs for several years and will probably be invited to speak before local organizations on international relations.

CHAPLAIN IS WELCOMED BY D. A. V. GROUP

A large attendance of D. A. V. members of Orange county was on hand to extend a hearty welcome to the state chaplain, Manfred W. Bennett, of Livingston, on his initial visit to the Jack Fisher chapter No. 23, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, at the Legion hall Wednesday night.

In introducing the guest of honor to the assemblage, Harry S. Pickard, commander of the Jack Fisher chapter, made it known that Comrade Bennett was one of the finest workers for the D. A. V. principles and one who was held in the very highest of esteem by every officer and member of the state department throughout his five or six year term as chaplain. His re-election each year always has been secured without a single dissenting vote.

Manfred W. Bennett stressed the importance of membership and asked that each one do his best to secure the maximum number of comrades in the chapter during the coming period. He believed the present time was one of vital importance in many ways and hoped that throughout the breadth of the land that officers and members would be alive to the situation, by securing a large and representative membership and thus put the national organization in a position to hold the beneficial legislation already secured for our comrades who are in dire need of such assistance, to overcome their handicaps suffered during their service to the country.

BALL IN WHICH SCIENTISTS REACHED HEIGHTS

High on a snow-field of an Alpine glacier, the fantastic-looking stratosphere vehicle of Prof. Auguste Piccard and Dr. Kipfer came safely to rest. Here you see the finale of the history-making flight—removal of the precious instruments and records from the balloon's aluminum gondola, in which the two Swiss scientists had ascended nearly ten miles into the earth's outer air. The men shown packing the equipment were members of a rescue expedition sent to the Gurgi glacier, in the Austrian Tyrol, after Piccard's balloon had been sighted drifting helplessly among the mountain peaks.

Chaplain Bennett pointed out the dangers of the Pacifist movement which has taken a hold in some parts of our country and state and warned of the dangers lurking in such a movement. He also believed that an extreme militaristic movement was also to be guarded against but that we must always be in a position to guard the flag of our country in any extreme emergency.

During the months of July and August the second meeting of each month will be an outdoor social affair at which the families of the members will be particularly invited.

PAYNE IS FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT

It only took 18 minutes yesterday afternoon for the 12 members of the jury which had heard evidence during the trial of Miles M. Payne to determine that he was guilty of grand theft.

Payne went on trial yesterday before Judge H. G. Ames in the first round with the law in connection with money and stock transactions in which he was said to be involved with women whom he had persuaded to let him handle their investments. This one was concerned with three $500 Strauss bonds, formerly the property of Mrs. Nellie Wagner.

He now faces a second trial on a similar charge, but involving a larger sum of money, in connection with deals he made with Carolina and Martha Knuth, Deputy District Attorney Leo Frills, who assisted in the prosecution of the case, declared that an investigation is being made in connection with other transactions of the prisoner.

Judgment is scheduled to be pronounced next Monday morning by Judge Ames.

Both defendants entered pleas of not guilty. Raymond will be tried on July 20 and Craig on September 15.

ANDREW WILCOX GIVEN SENTENCE

Finding no extenuating circumstances in the defendant's past record in support of his plea for probation, Judge H. G. Ames today denied probation to Andrew J. Wilcox, 66, and sentenced him to serve 18 months in the county jail.

Wilcox was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and search of his past record revealed convictions under similar circumstances in the past. Recommendation of the probation department was that probation be denied.

Failure of Percy Howe, alias George Miller, to file a written application, resulted in his request for clemency being continued one week, when it was called by Judge Ames today. Howe had pleaded guilty to a charge of forging a prescription for narcotics.

HASH A LA PEARLS

SEATTLE—Mrs. E. J. Wing's sister came to visit her and when the two were leaving the house they put a string of pearls and a wrist watch in a casserole for safe keeping. While they were gone Mrs. Wing's mother made a dish of hash in the casserole. The family had hash that night, but it wasn't until the next day, on warming over the dish, that Mrs. Wing got down to the pearls and wrist watch. After her second bite she chewed on something hard. It was her pearls. The third bite produced the wrist watch which, she says, was still running.

TUFFREE BLAME TUFFREE FOR FATAL CRASH

GARDEN GROVE PIONEER DIES THIS MORNING

George R. Reyburn, 71, pioneer citizen of Orange county and a native Californian, died suddenly at his home early today, at Garden Grove.

Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Garden Grove for years, he has been actively in the work all his life and was prominent throughout the entire county and state.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at the Methodist church of Garden Grove and interment will be made in the Fairhaven cemetery.

Born in Petaluma on May 19, 1860, he came to Santa Ana in 1876, and aside from 10 years spent in Texas during his early manhood, he had resided in this section since that time. He was married in Santa Ana in 1895 to Miss Katie McGee, who survives him.

Mr. Reyburn had been in failing health for the past several months, but his death came as a surprise, as he was up yesterday and apparently feeling well.

Plan To Complete Credential Tests

BAND PRESENTS COLORFUL AND VARIED PROGRAM FOR LARGE AUDIENCE IN PARK

By RUTH ANDREWS

At the second program of the summer series now being presented weekly by Santa Ana Municipal band with D. C. Cianfoni, director, the customary appreciative audience of several thousand Orange county music lovers filled Birch park last evening. Interesting solo and instrumental numbers lent a note of variation to a program which included several selections premiered locally.

Opened by the rhythmic swing of the "Chicago Tribune" march, with brass instrumentation heavily accenting its melodic theme, direct contrast was found in a dramatic reading of the overture from Pliotow's opera, "Stradella." Introduction of this artistic work was delicately handled, whispered andante of opening measures rising to a dramatically majestic repetition of the first theme, changes in shading effectively contrasted. Twinkling animato of the second theme stressed work of woodwinds, with growing rumble of brass and drum, the powerful finale interpreted by the director with fire and assurance.

Much applause was accorded a graceful rendition of an arrangement of familiar themes from the extremely popular musical comedy, "No, No, Nanette" (Yonmans) which was programmed by the band for the first time. Rapid variation of the sprightly syncopated rhythms, ever-changing tempos and clearly outlined melodies characterizing the number were appealing.

Real appreciation rewarded R. S. Briggs and J. Paine for their realistic rendition of the charmingly novel piccolo duet, "Birds of the Forest" (Mayr), the piquant twinkling birdnotes outlined by the duo, while the band's effectively subdued background of accompaniment and spirited interludes made the work still more appealing. In response to the enthusiasm of the audience, Director Cianfoni's fine trombone work was enjoyed in that melodious Italian favorite, "Neapolitan Nights," mellow tonal richness uppermost.

Resonance and clarity of well-sustained tone marked Robert Brown's interpretation of the old sacred favorite, "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan). Mr. Brown's fine baritone brought to the familiar work convincing gravity, while the colorfully modulated background of band instrumentation simulated a great organ realistically. In response to long-continued applause, Mr. Brown's choice of the immortal old Scotch lyric "Annie Laurie" seemed especially appropriate, being sung with the tenderness and ardor of a true Scotchman and really fine purity of tone.

work were met forcefully by the instrumentation. Director Cianfoni's interpretation effective in dramatic understanding and sensitivity to contrast. The work, while somewhat Wagnerian in style and treatment, was rich with an Italian warmth and interview-wealth of melody and the typically Latin love of vigorous, abrupt contrasts.

Middleton's picturesque American sketch, "Down South," also premiered, was lighter in character, its syncopated staccato rhythms and realistic shuffling of feet calling to mind a picture of dancing negroes in the carefree environment of the Old South. Buoyant measures of Volstead's characteristic, "Jolly Fellows," to which an interlude of whistling by band members lent a human touch, proved a pleasing finale.

During the program, Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band announced that next week's concert would be designated as "Service Club Night" with members of local service clubs to be honor guests. As a special feature, the Lions club glee club from Bolto's operatic masterpiece "Metefele" proved especially arresting. The demands of this powerful and colorfully orchestrated

ROBBERS' REJOYST

by ZANE GREY

INSTALLMENT 23

Smoky came panting in with a pack, and started off again. That's enough, Smoky," called the locum returned. "Nothin' left to Hank's bed," he panted. "I didn't locate that." "What do you hear?" "Fosses." "Sure, I catch it—Which way?" "Can't tell." "Grab a rifle. Seems to me if a was up on top somewhere hear horses before we could that direction." "Shore. Must be Mac an' Jeff." "Smoky had guess correctly. Half dozen horses appeared tearing rocks and through brush into oval, with the two men, riding back, in close pursuit. Then above the noise rose Hays' torian voice: "Ride! Ride for pl... Let the horses go!" The robber chieftain came plunging down the gap. He was warning and Jeff. There must have a more danger for them, on the pent, than for him. Jim, keep your eye peeled on cliff," said Smoky, and stole under cover of the brush. Presently a white puff of smoke ed above the ragged rim. "The fight was on. One of a men—Bridges—let out a a bawl and swayed over, al losing his balance. Jim look more at him, but concentrat on the rim. Another puff of white! Something dark—a slouch hat—bobbed up.

Jim's rifle, already raised, swerved a trifle—cracked. The hat went flying. "Wal, if that bird didn't have it in a stick he'd scalped, I'll gamble," observed Smoky.

The horses came over the bench, frightened, but no stampeding, and Mac drove them into the corral. This was around the corner from the range of the sharpshooter of the rim. Bridges, reeling on the horse, followed Mac, who ran out of the corral, to catch him as he fell. Then, as they came along close to the wall, Hays arrived from the other direction.

"Heeseman—with his outfit—nine in all," he heaved. "They're scatterin' to surround the roost—But they can't cross—below us—an' across there it's—out of range—We're all right."

"Yes, we air! Haw! Haw!" ejaculated Smoky, glaring back. Mac half carried the bulky Bridges into the safety zone and let him down on the ground with his head on a bed roll.

"Hank, I'm done fer," said Bridges. "Lemme see." And the leader, kneeling beside Bridges, tore open his shirt. He had been shot in the back, the bullet going clear through. "Wal, I should smile. Say your prayers, Jeff. Somebody take his gun."

"Take it yourself, Hays," rejoined Mac, sullenly. "Hank, you go hide with your lady prisoner an' we'll do the fightin'!" added Smoky, who had crawled back from the edge of the brush.

"Hide! What's eatin' you?" roared the chief.

"You know what, you—" "Hays, we'd rather die fightin' than owe our lives to one bullet of yours," said Happy Jack, in a cold contempt Jim had not thought possible of the man.

"Wal, I'll take you up," rasped Hays, after a moment of assimilation. He had degenerated to a point where he let passion sway him utterly. "You stay here, Hays," ordered Jim, hotly. "You got us in this mix. You lied and cheated. You betrayed us. And you'll fight, by heaven! Unless you're as much of a coward as you are a betrayer."

The chief grew livid where he had been gray. Only then had he grasped the significance of this fiery scorn of his comrades.

"You all double-crossed me!" "Shove, Same as you did us. If we git through this deal, which I've a hunch we never will, there'll come a reckonin' with me, Hank Hays." "I meant to make a clean breast of it—divvy all the money," said Hays, in a strangled voice. "But I got crazy about the girl. I couldn't think of nothin' else."

"Haw! Haw! fer that first crack an' okay on the second—Now!" A bullet thudded into the wall, followed by the report of a rifle.

"Duck back! That was from somewhere else," shouted Hays. They dove twenty feet farther back. Here they were apparently safe, except from the grassy ridge of the oval in front, which it was unlikely any sharpshooters could reach in daylight. Smoky peeped around the west corner, Mac round the one opposite. Hays knelt on one knee, rifle in hands, peering out. Jim went back to the apex of the notch, and bracing one foot in each side, clinging with one free hand, got up to a shelf from which he could peep out of the hole. He was exceedingly wary. In front was thick, low brush; on his right a thinner fringe, and the left was open.

After a careful study Jim crept out into the brush, stirred by a renewal of firing from the west rim. Wisps of white clouds, thinning on the light wind, located the positions of the shooting. First Jim peered through the growth of brush directly in front. He did not espy any man, but half a mile over the hummocky rocks he saw a little cove full of horses. The packs had not yet been removed from some of them, nor saddles from the others. Heeseman had come to make a siege of it.

Jim did not move hastily. A ragged section of cliff, quite high, above and to the left of the south exit, gave him misgivings. That was a likely place for ambush. Farther to the west, however, where the shooting came from, there was some hope of locating an enemy.

Almost at once he caught a movement of a dark object through a crevice in the rim. The distance was great for accurate shooting at so small a target. But with a rest he drew a coarse, steady aim and fired once.

The object flopped over. A shrill cry, unmistakable to any man used to gunplay, rent the air. Jim knew he had reached one of the Heeseman gang, to disable him if no more. Next instant a raking fire swept the brush on both sides of Jim. He dropped down into the cave.

Smoky stood there, in the act of climbing.

"They near got me," rang out Jim. "I hit one of them way over where they shot at Bridges. There's a bunch of them hid on that cliff to the right of the outlet, you know, where Jeff went up to scout."

"Jim, they got us located," replied Smoky, gravely.

"Sure. But so long as they can't line on us in here—" "They can move all around. An' pretty soon Heeseman will figger that men behind the high center in front can shoot straight in here."

"I believe I can see over that high center."

"What from?" "This hole above. The side toward the oval is a foot lower. It'd be reasonably safe."

"I'll go with you." Bridges lay groaning, his big hands clutching his clothes, his face a bluish cast. Mac sat helplessly beside him. Hays knelt out by the corner of the wall, with Jack whispering behind him.

"Hold my rifle. I'll go up," said Jim. Without encumbrance he readily climbed to the shelf, finding to his satisfaction that he could stand on it and look out over the oval without being seen from the cliff.

"Hand up both rifles." Smoky complied, and was soon beside Jim. "Jim, there's only one place we couldn't see, an' that's straight back of the center. If they savvy it they'll almost shore try to work in from the west."

"You're right, old-timer," replied Jim, grimly, and pointed to the western entrance, where two stealthily moving figures could even then be discerned slipping, like Indians, from bush to bush.

"Jim, you're a right fine fightin' pard," quoth Smoky, delighted. "Now, ain't that jest a shame? They won't have sense enough to run, givin' us hard shots. They'll sneak it, shore, look at 'em. I could almost bore one already."

"It's nery of them, at that," admitted Jim. "After I shot from the top of this bank."

"They might not know that. It takes a good quarter of an hour to grade round that cliff an' down—Where'd they go, Jim?" "They're below the ridge now. Look sharp, Smoky, or they might get a couple of shots in first."

"Wal, if they do I hope both bullets lodge in Hank's gizzard." "My sentiments exactly," Smoky. I saw something shine. Tip of a rifle. Right—to the right. Ah!" "Take the first feller, Jim—One—two—three."

UNCLE SAM TO BUY
CAZAR'S OLD LIBRARY

WASHINGTON—The Library of Congress has announced it will purchase part of the library which was once the property of the royal family of Russia.

No mention was made of the price involved. The books will be obtained from Israel Perle, of New York, who acquired the Russian collection a few months ago from a state concern dealing in books in Soviet Russia.

The collection is said to embrace about 1700 volumes. It includes books that belonged to Alexander II, Alexander III, Nicholas II, the Count Alexei, and the Empress Marie Feodorovna, wife of Alexander III.

The collection formerly was in the Winter Palace at Leningrad. The purchase includes numerous secret documents embraced in more than 10 volumes which had belonged to the general staff of Russia and related to military preparations of various countries adjacent to Russia.

The books are printed in Russian, French, German, English and other languages.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The toy shop man just bowed his head, smiled at the Tinymites and said, "I love to have the little folks drop in and see my toys. I'm usually busy as can be. I made these things myself, you see. I guess I have most everything to please wee girls and boys."

Said Clowny, "I'm not fooled at all. I know what's hanging on the wall. Big stockings, made for Santa Claus to carry once a year. I've had one every Christmas morning since the day that I was born. Yours look the same as Santa's. Say, what are they doing here?"

"Oh, I made those for Santa Claus to use next Christmas eve because he is afraid that he'll run short. I'm glad to help him out. Right in his shop they're going to stay till he next starts out in his sleigh. If you're real good you will get one at Christmas time, no doubt."

And then they spied fine dolls galore and bigger toys upon the floor. The Tinies spent about an hour just looking 'round the place. The Travel Man then said, "I think I'd like some lunch and a cool drink." "Gee, so would I," snapped Clowny, with a smile up on his face.

Right after lunch the Travel Man said, "Well, boys, we'd best leave Japan. I've hired a monstrous seaplane. To the Philippines we'll fly. Today's the best time for our start. With short good-byes we will depart. I'm sure you all will get a thrill from sailing through the sky."

So, in about an hour or so the Tinymites all shouted, "Oh! That plane is sure a beauty. How are we to get aboard?" The Travel Man replied, "By boat. There's one now waiting, you will note." They rowed out to the plane and then its trusty engine roared.

Missing Letter Links

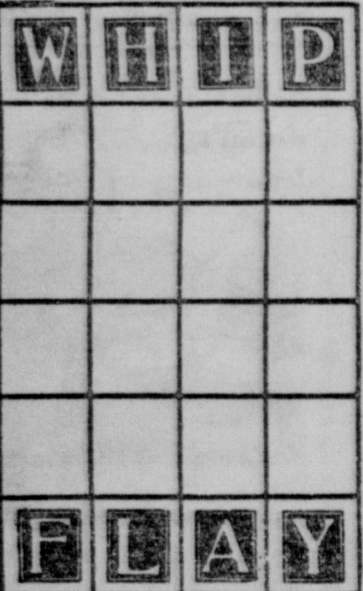

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

Old Olive Trees Near Capistrano Mission Uprooted

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, June 26.—Another landmark connected with the mission has given way to progress. The old olive trees, said by many to have been planted some time during the early building of the mission, have been uprooted from the site of the new football field of the San Juan Capistrano high school. The trees, some half dozen or more in number, were in a depression on the high school property between the Malcom home and the highway.

Steam shovels are engaged in converting this tract of land, which extends for a distance of nearly two city blocks along the highway, into a football field. Earth from the grading will be used to level the field and a regulation size field will be made, surrounded by a 440 track. The field will eventually be turfed. Grass will be planted on the embankments and parking space adequate for large numbers of cars arranged. The grassy embankments around the field will afford seating for many spectators.

PASADENA BOY LOSES LIFE IN NEWPORT BAY

NEWPORT BEACH, June 26.—Waters off Balboa island claimed another life yesterday, when William E. Eakman, 18-year-old South Pasadena school boy drowned while bathing off the island. Frantic efforts of life guards and the inhalator squad of the Newport fire department failed to revive the youth, who was under water approximately 20 minutes before his body was located by guards using grappling hooks.

According to the drowned youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Eakman, the family was spending the day on Balboa island and the youth decided to take a dip in the bay. He could not swim and had been warned by members of the family to remain close to shore.

The mother and father had left the bathing beach and returned to a point where their car was parked and used as headquarters for the party. The youth remained in the water and, according to witnesses, was apparently stricken with cramps. Life guards were summoned when the lad's difficulties were noticed but before their arrival his body had disappeared under the waters of the bay.

The inhalator squad from the fire department was called while guards, using grappling hooks started a search of the waters for the body. After 20 minutes it was found and brought ashore where a vain two-hour battle for his life was waged.

The body was taken to Groom's funeral home in Costa Mesa, where Coroner J. D. Brown conducted an official investigation today.

The dinner was a three-course affair and a lovely centerpiece of white daisies was used by the hosts.

In the afternoon the party was joined by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fiefield Jr., son and daughter-in-law of their dinner guest, the young couple having been married at noon that day in Los Angeles. They with Mr. and Mrs. George Sowder, of Orange, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Shirley, remained with the other guests at the Shirley home for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Toussaint and son motored to Bloomington, where they visited with Mrs. Toussaint's mother.

12-ACRE SITE DONATED FOR GIRL'S CAMP

LAGUNA BEACH, June 26.—With 12 acres of land given to their exclusive use by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Moulton from the Moulton ranch, Girl Scouts of Laguna Beach boast of one of the best camps in use anywhere for such purposes. The new camp is close to the ocean and takes the place of the Dolph camp of last year. It is in Aliso canyon.

Mrs. Thomas L. Hosmer, landscapist, chairman of the camp committee, and director of the camp, who has laid out a number of camps for girls, has made a plan which will be used in establishing the new camp. Though verbal permission to use the site was given about two weeks ago, final arrangement securing it for the Girl Scouts has just been completed.

Former Mayor Thomas A. Cummings chairman of a subcommittee Mrs. Roy M. Ropp general chairman of the committee and Mrs. Roy W. Peacock have been working for some time on the project. Councilman M. B. McMillan obtained permission from the city council to use city road machinery on the tract and under the direction of Mr. Cummings a road has been cut through the site and a 30-foot firebreak has been made around the camp.

In order to protect the camp from cattle on the Moulton ranch, a fence is to be erected Sunday by volunteers, more than a dozen men having promised to assist in the work. A hot meal will be served at noon by the Woman's Relief corps. Joseph R. Jahraus is providing posts and wire for the fence at cost and will pay for hauling from San Pedro to the camp site. Fred Parry will give corrugated iron for the store house at cost. The Laguna Beach County Water district is giving water pipe from discarded materials and Mr. Cummings has given a 900-gallon water tank. The water is brought from a spring half a mile distant. Mayor J. E. Bishop has donated lumber, as has James K. Hutchings for use in the camp and Ralph McTaggart is to come from the mountains to build the stone fireplace for the camp. Sand and gravel are given by A. B. Collins.

The store house of corrugated iron is to be 10x12 feet. Tables and benches are to be built by carpenters sent by Ropp and Mackey. The hope is expressed that the camp will be ready for July 4, and the Girl Scouts are working to get ready for that date. The regular camping season opens August 1. A feature of the camp is the natural amphitheatre, facilitating offering of scout stunts.

Mrs. B. C. Mackey is vice chairman of the committee, Mrs. J. Royster Helm, treasurer, Mrs. Leslie Courter, secretary, Mrs. Perry Warren and Mrs. E. C. Day in charge of general welfare.

Park Commission Architect Views San Clemente Site

SAN CLEMENTE, June 26.—Harry W. Shepherd, landscape architect representing the state park commission, yesterday inspected the proposed site for a state park at San Clemente. Shepherd, who approved the site of 100 acres of land opposite the San Clemente municipal golf course and 6000 feet of beach frontage, said that his visit yesterday was to look the site over and make plans for its development providing it becomes a state park. He conferred with Mayor Thomas F. Murphine in regard to maintenance of the park, life guard service and other matters.

Negotiations for the purchase of the park continue.

PROGRAM ENJOYED BY CHURCH GROUP

BUENA PARK, June 26.—A program of interest was presented at the meeting of the Missionary society of the Congregational church in the social hall Wednesday, when a letter from Mrs. Dorothy Lockwood, in charge of a school for girls in Madura, South India, was read by the program chairman, Mrs. W. B. Shaw.

Mrs. G. S. Davis reported that the missionary box was ready to be sent to the Santa Indian Normal school in Nebraska. Used Christmas cards were collected to be sent to Mrs. Lockwood in South India.

The society voted to contribute to the fund for a memorial window in the church for Fred Bastady.

Capistrano Club Arranges Picnic For Irvine Park

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, June 26.—The Capistrano Women's club will hold an evening picnic for husbands and children of members at Irvine Park, July 10. A feature of the picnic will be the steak fry, over which John Malcom will preside. Dancing and sports will follow the picnic supper. The committee in charge consists of Mesdames Carl Romer, Don Leydon, J. Roy Smith, John Malcom and Russell Cook. The affair has been planned by Mesdames H. S. Barnes and E. M. ENGINEER LEAVES

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, June 26.—Holton D. Robertson, noted bridge engineer, who spent a few days this week visiting his sister, Mrs. Francis Ames, whom he has not seen in eight years, has left for the northern part of the state. Mr. Robertson recently completed work on a large bridge at Portland.

RADIO PLANT AT BUENA PARK IS COMPLETED

BUENA PARK, June 26.—A pretentious program will mark the opening of the radio station KFI, California's first 50,000 watt radio station, which will go on the air with the initial broadcast within the next week. The transmitter station located at Buena Park is practically completed and will be turned over for broadcasting as soon as the engineers complete all adjustments.

The station, with towers 400 feet high, each topped with a red light that may be seen for 40 miles, was erected at Buena Park where machinery costing $200,000 has been installed to put the programs on the air, and is 18 air miles from the microphones at Tenth and Hope streets, Los Angeles.

Every precaution has been taken to protect operators from mishap, possible because of the voltage thrown off by the powerful transmitters, condensers and grid leads. A series of automatic cutouts throws off the power whenever the steel doors are opened, and even after closing them again a switch must be thrown to turn the power on once more.

Four 50-kilowatt tubes, each taking the place of a former series of five, will provide a smooth, unvarying flow of power. Resistors, tubes and "bottles" for all purposes are protected by heavy steel grills.

NEW WATER WELL AIDS BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, June 26.—The new water well of the Orange County Water Works No. 2 proved a valuable asset to the community this week when the supply of water from the old well failed. The new well, which was supplied with a pressure tank a week ago, was then hooked into the lines and the pumps started. With the use of both wells no danger of shortage of water is expected.

The warm weather and water for the building of Manchester avenue and Western avenue used up more than the old well could produce, thereby reducing the pressure to a point where a fire hazard existed.

The new well was put in this spring with a pressure tank installed last week when the board of supervisors deemed the new well a necessity.

HOOKS and SLIDES

William Braucher

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
One of the most promising heavy weight prospects in these old United States this very minute seems to be Stan Foreda. He's a Polish lad of 22... with a darting left... and a very nasty right... especially when he swings it as an uppercut... He can throw it up, down or sideways... You are going to hear plenty from this fellow... Frank Flourney is guiding him around... Flourney wanted to put him on with Risko as a semi-windup by they shipped him to Cleveland... but Flourney's side wanted ten grand... 'I'd have let him fight Risko before that crowd at Cleveland for an old straw hat,' says Flourney.

TRAIL TO HEROISM
Memphis had Marvey Hendrick 11 years ago and sent him to Chattanooga. From Chattanooga he was sold to the Red Sox. Promptly they shipped him to Galveston. Then the Yankees got him. In two years in the outfield with the Yankees he played in only 77 games and never batted above .273.

So New York peddled him to Cleveland. The Indians used him in 285 games in 1925, and he hit .286. Cleveland turned him over to Providence. He further enriched the railroads by turning up next in New Orleans. He played a full season at first base and hit .371.

So Brooklyn brought him up. He played the outfield and first base for the Robins for four years, taking an occasional job at third.

GOODBYE AGAIN
This year Uncle Robbie decided to let him go—down the river to Cincinnati. Mickey Heath, with a fractured arm, went on the voluntary retired list. Dan Howley put him on first base. And what did old Marvey do? Just hit .400, that's all and led the league. In his first 141 times at bat he rang out 55 hits. In only four of his first 36 games for the Reds did Hendricks go without a hit.

The tall boy from Tennessee, after years of filling utility and pinch-hitting roles, has been assigned to a regular job in his 39th year. Helping the Reds go on a victory rampage, he has become a hero in Cincinnati. Redland has taken new hope in the down-trodden team.

WHY, UNCLE ROBBIE!
Just why Robbie permitted Hendrick to get away is a little hard to explain. In 1929 Harvey was the most valuable player on the team. During that season he played four positions on the club and played every one of them well. Robbie started him at third base. Then he was shifted to center field. For a time he led the league in hitting with a mark of .410. Playing a hunch one day, Robbie shifted him to first. Bancroft and Wright suffered injuries and Hendrick filled in at short.

Harvey has one of the finest temperaments in the game. He leaves to play and is willing to do his stuff anywhere on the diamond.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
There's a chance that the backfield for those "light" Irish of Notre Dame for the first game next fall may be composed of the following descendants of Patrick O'Donnell: Quarterback, Jack-wich; halves, Schwartz, Sheeketski and Lukats. . . . Bill Doak, the old spitball flinger, still is pitching independent baseball in Pittsburgh. . . . Babe Herman uses one of the lightest bats swung in the big leagues. . . . 35 ounces. . . . and Buzz Arlett uses the heaviest. . . . 44 ounces. . . . The comeback of Earl Combs under Marse Joe McCarthy is one of the thrills of this baseball season.

U. S. NET STARS WIN AT WIMBLEDON

Santa Ana, Garden Grove Clubs Meet Here

NIGHT LEAGUE SPOTLIGHT ON GAME AT BOWL

Santa Ana's Stars may be bothered as well as hot tonight when they run afoul Garden Grove's peppy Peppers in the Bowl. It will be the second game of the second half of the National Night league's split schedule.

Garden Grove lost to the Stars both times they played in the first round but the scores, 10-8 and 4-3, readily indicate the intensity of the arguments. Aside from one game with Anaheim and one with Huntington Beach, Garden Grove's scrappy club gave the champions more uneasy moments than any other team in the league.

The opposing moundmen probably will be Joe Cornelius and Mearl Tuel, although Earl Merrill is a Santa Ana possibility and Joe Mene may get the assignment for the visitors. Because Garden Grove gave his men so much trouble in earlier games, Manager George Lackey had about decided today to use Cornelius, who baffled Whittier last Tuesday with his hurling and beat them with a home run.

Peppers Revise Lineup
Garden Grove expects to offer a slightly revised lineup from the one it presented here before. The battery—Yuel and Hapes—is the same but Johnny Lutz, obtained from Santa Ana, will be at first base, with "Whitey" Pea at second, Les Fulson third and Bob Bowe short.

Injuries have been hampering Fulson, even keeping him out of the lineup against Anaheim Tuesday, and if he isn't in shape to play Pea will be shifted to third and Bill Dugger used at second. Lutz, Pea, Bowe and Dugger are all Santa Ana boys. Olson, Mene, Garr, Natland and Anders, with the first three scheduled to start, are the Peppers' outfielders.

Lackey counts on using the same lineup employed against Whittier. Ed Daley will substitute for the stricken "Benny" Wilcox back of the plate. Bill Cole will fill in at first base, Daley's former post. "Doc" Smith will guard second, Darwin Scott third and "Memphie" Hill short. Randolph Bell will patrol left, Leavitt Daley center and "Rosy" Merrill right.

Nomads Troublesome
The Santa Ana-Garden Grove game promises to be the best and closest of the evening unless the sometimes troublesome North Long Beach Nomads, considerably strengthened by the hustling Claude Anderson, make things unpleasant for Huntington Beach.

Anaheim should have little difficulty in winning at home from Westminster. Whittier, rebuffed by Santa Ana, should get going at the expense of Long Beach. Olive is a hot bet to whip Fullerton at Fullerton. The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Santa Ana	1	0	1.000
Anaheim	1	0	1.000
Huntington Beach	1	0	1.000
Fullerton	0	1	.000
Whittier	0	1	.000
Garden Grove	0	1	.000
Olive	0	1	.000
Westminster	0	1	.000
Long Beach	0	0	.000
North Long Beach	0	0	.000

PLAN OLYMPIC ROWING RACES AT LONG BEACH

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—Assurance of one of the finest rowing courses in the world for the Olympic games next year was given today when the contract was signed between officials of the city of Long Beach and the organizing committee of the Xth Olympiad for the completion of the Long Beach Marine stadium.

When the improvements called for in this contract are completed, this course, adjoining Alamitos bay, will conform to all Olympic requirements. The course is 2000 meters long, 130 meters wide and has an approximate depth of 2½ meters.

The organizing committee selected this site two years ago, after a great battle with factions from San Francisco who wanted the hoving held in Lake Merced in that city. Officials of the Federation Internationale des Societes d'Aviron, which is the international federation governing rowing, inspected the course and pronounced it the most ideal rowing stadium ever provided for Olympic competition.

Now that the contract for improvements has been signed this stadium will remain permanently after the Olympic games, and is certain to prove a great incentive to rowing which is so popular in the northwest, San Francisco and San Diego but has yet to "take hold" in this section.

A grandstand, with a seating capacity of 10,000 will be built, boat-houses will be constructed with accommodations for the shells and athletes, while the gradual sloping bank will be improved so that more than 100,000 spectators can see these great races.

The rowing events are scheduled to start on Tuesday, August 9, 1932, and will continue for five days in which the leading nations will vie for the honors won for America last year by the University of California eight.

MRS. ROBINSON IS GOLF CLUB WINNER
Mrs. L. H. Robinson won first place in Class A medal play sweepstakes for women of the Santa Ana Country club yesterday. Her card was 96-20-76. Mrs. C. V. Doty was second with 100-20-30.

Wykoff, Hall 1932 Trojan Co-Captains

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(UP)—Frank Wykoff, national and international 100-yard champion, and Bob Hall, holder of the shot put titles in the same meets, were elected last night as co-captains of the 1932 University of Southern California track team.

Wykoff, who also won the individual award for scoring 91 points during the past season, will captain the track men, with Hall leading the field athletes.

U. S. FAVORITE OVER ENGLAND FOR RYDER CUP

COLUMBUS, O., June 26.—(UP)—The American Ryder Cup golf team held a commanding lead over their British rivals when the morning rounds of two-ball foursome play were completed today.

Farrell and Sarazen led Compston and Davis, five up; Hagen and Shute led Duncan and Havers, ten up; Diegel and Eppos led Mitchell and Robson, two up; Cox and Burke led Easterbrook and Whitcombe, one up.

COLUMBUS, O., June 26.—(UP)—Players representing Great Britain and the United States met on the Scioto course here today in competition for the Ryder Cup, the world's greatest professional golf team championship trophy.

ESTELLE WILL FORGE DIVORCE FROM DEMPSEY

By GEORGE H. BEALE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor have been so busy lately that they haven't had time to get their divorce, or at least that was the only reason the screen actress could offer today for the lack of action toward the final break.

She said, however, that divorced they certainly will be and she added that she intended to have the divorce her own way.

"Jack started this thing by appearing in Reno and announcing he was going to file a suit against me," she said. "He didn't even consult me. Now I'm going to finish the thing."

"I'm going to try not to hurt Jack for I still like him, but I'm going to take care of myself and see that I don't get hurt, either."

Miss Taylor suggested that mental cruelty probably would be the ground for suit by either but she seemed to think that Dempsey wouldn't have very much of a case on any charge.

"I've been told that Jack told newspapermen in Reno that he wanted a family while I wanted a career," she said with a smile. "You'll be interested to know, and I think this is a great laugh, that I was home in bed at the time while I told that he gave out the interview in a Reno night club where he went with another woman."

Thursday—Presbyterians vs. Monroe's Pharmacy, 7 p. m.; Mystery Team vs. Hawley's 8 p. m.

What happens between now and July 13, closing day, makes no difference to the Hill and Carden night baseball team. The Clothers, piloted by Franklin Nickey, were "in" today as champions of the first half of the Santa Ana City league.

The Hill-Cardens won their eighth straight game and clinched the flag beyond the hope of any pretenders to the throne by beating the Hawley Sporting Goods ensemble, 3 to 1, in the second half of a doubleheader at the Bowl last night.

Fred Miller's superlative pitching turned back the Spetsmen, although Elwood Lindley hurled so well for the losers that he, too, deserved to win. All four runs made in the affair were traceable to errors.

Hill and Carden got two in the second when Arnold walked, Woods was safe on Norton's error, Smiley and Nelson went out infield and Seacord was safe on Lindley's error. The Clothers got another in the third on Sullivan's single, a two-base error on the throw-in, and another error by Lindley.

The lone Hawley run was manufactured in the third on singles by Johnston and Lindley and an outfield error.

The curtain-raiser was a wild and woolly affair in which the First Baptists surprised by noosing out Monroe's pharmacy, 12-11. The Druggists had an 11-4 lead going into the sixth but blew up and the churchmen won with vigorous rallies in the last two innings.

LA BARBA, VARNER BOX AT HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—(UP)—Fidel La Barba, king-pin of the California featherweights, will defend his title in a 10-round bout with Claude Varner of Bakersfield at Hollywood Legion stadium tonight.

La Barba's last fight was against Cat Battalino, world's champion, in New York last month.

Varner gained a draw with Fidel in their first meeting several months ago, but the former world champion said he was holding back at the time because of a coming fight with Kid Francis, in New York.

Hollywood stadium will be dark for the next three weeks, preparing for the Tony Canzoneri-Cecil Payue battle at Wrigley field July 13.

Split Season For Coast Loop Urged
LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(UP)—Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league, has written letters to club owners asking their "sentiment" toward a split season the first week in July, he announced.

He-Man Bout Demanded Of Baer, Paolino

RENO, Nev., June 26.—(UP)—In the smoke-filled Dempsey fight headquarters here, Governor Fred G. Balzar of Nevada today told Max Baer and Paulino Uscudun the kind of a fight he wants to see when the two meet in the arena here July 4.

"This is no 'boxing exhibition,' he said. 'It's a prize fight and don't forget it. Nevada won't stand for a sissy affair. If either of you fellows do any stalling we're going to run you out of Nevada and keep you out.'

"We propose to make Nevada the sports center of America, and we aren't going to take any chances on this first event fizzling."

"The reputation of the state for a fair fight and a run for the money is at stake and you fellows will have to scrap like you never have before."

The governor, his hat pushed to the back of his head, rocked on his heels as he addressed the two fighters in the crowded headquarters room. Jack Dempsey sat at a nearby desk, smiling to himself and taking it all in.

Fourteen Iowa State college swimmers, members of Ames, Ia., Red Cross Life Saving corps, have accepted summer life guard jobs at swimming pools throughout the middle west.

VAN RYN BEATS BOUSSUS; WOOD OUSTS Malfroy

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26.—(UP)—America's youthful trio of Davis Cup competitors qualified today for the quarter-final round of the Wimbledon men's singles championship.

Sidney Wood, 19-year-old New Yorker, defeated C. E. Malfroy, Cambridge student, and top ranking New Zealand player 6-3, 10-12, 10-8, 6-4. His 21-year-old townsman, Frank X. Shields, defeated John S. Cliff, London city champion, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1 and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, 26-year-old senior member of the squad, defeated Christian Boussus, France, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Boussus' elimination left Jean Borotra, the only French contender in the singles. Boussus was no match for Van Ryn, ninth ranking American player. Van Ryn played steady tennis, alternating a baseline game with a net attack which completely bewildered his opponent.

Van Ryn's victory served as a tonic to the United States hopes of winning the current competition and for Davis Cup victory. The Philadelphia, more famous as a doubles player than in the singles, is regarded as somewhat of a "dark horse."

LAGUNA BEACH, June 25. — Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were dinner guests at a cafe here this week, accompanied by William DeMille and his daughter. Among other celebrities who have been guests this week were Walt Mason, who called on S. S. McCune and S. S. Van Dine, who is spending a vacation here. Van Dine is a friend of Anthony Anderson. Ted Cook, humorist, and family are again at their home at Emerald bay.

FLOWED TOO SOON

HOUSTON.—If a bootlegging couple of this city ever start serving whiskey again, they're going to get a larger outlet in their bathtub, and have stronger doors made on their house. Police pounded on their door recently in a raid. They found the door locked. They broke in and found the couple had fled to the bathroom and locked the door. On breaking open that door, they found both husband and wife busy trying to get 50 gallons of whiskey down the drain before they were captured.

FINEST CHOCOLATE CREAMS ARE DIPPED ONE AT A TIME

For a Similar Reason Hills Bros. Roast Their Coffee a Few Pounds at a Time

Candy makers agree that when creams are dipped one at a time in the chocolate, the coating is applied much more evenly than when dipped in big batches.

According to the results achieved by Hills Bros., this same principle holds true in roasting coffee. By roasting a few pounds at a time by a continuous process, instead of large batches, a uniform roast is certain.

This process originated, and patented by Hills Bros., is called "Controlled Roasting." "Controlled" is a most appropriate word because during the entire roasting process there is automatic regulation. This control accurately regulates the flow of coffee through the roasters—also the temperature. Every berry of the rare blend is roasted to a degree that insures perfection. No other coffee has the same delicious flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee. Freshness is always guaranteed in Hills Bros. Coffee because it is packed in vacuum cans. By this method, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out, and kept out of the can. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold everywhere by grocers.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

"If we could keep in sight the romance of our lives, how much more fun it would be to live them. If we could see the petty daily round, the sweeping of porches and weeding of garden beds in all the glamour and picturesqueness of a moving picture or an eloquent page from a novel, their dullness and monotony would take on different values." Thus Kathleen Norris voices our secret desires in "Hands Full of Living."

This book is in response to the hundreds and thousands of letters Mrs. Norris receives from women all over the world asking her advice about work and home and love and living. This is Kathleen Norris' own philosophy, her answer to the perplexities of life.

The questions that are asked in these letters strike at the very work of life and its problems. These are a few of the actual questions, ardent, pathetic, sometimes tragic that women bring to Mrs. Norris to solve:

"Why," asks Louise, "Why do you and mother want me to be pure and self-controlled and sweet and natural and normal and all the rest of it? Why? What's the good of it? Where does it get you?"

"Where business is it but mine and my husband's if we cease to love each other, and are miserable together, and decide upon a dignified separation?"

"Is it fair that a vain, reckless little girl of 17 can lay up agonies of fear and remorse for a woman of 28 and 38 and 48? I want so to be straight and right and unafraid—and it's too late."

Kathleen Norris brings the richness of her own life and the observations of others to help answer these difficulties. In this day of efficiency and materialism, the simplicity and idealism which the author brings to these problems is inspiring. Perhaps, some of our complexities would straighten themselves if we could see the soul as well as the body. "Hands Full of Living" is illuminated by the vision that has made Kathleen Norris one of America's best loved writers.

The fascination and charm of woman has been a mystery and allure from earliest ages. Even today when woman is as efficient as man, her beauty is a compelling factor. In "Enter the Actress," Rosamund Glider tells of the most fascinating of all types of woman—the actress.

The history of women in the theater begins with the history of religion—for the first actress was a priestess. Women's parts were played by boys in the Middle Ages. The golden age of the theater came with Moliere, who not only wrote plays, but had the two greatest actresses of the day as his wife and mistress. Charles' merry Nell Gwynn has her chapter and so has Aphra Behn, the fiery and none too prudish playwright. The beginning of the German theater, the stage during the French Revolution, and England in the great eighteenth century—all have their heroines.

This book is not only an account of great actresses. The primary aim of the writing is to make known the innovators who dared to try out new ideas in face of hostile tradition. In each period, whenever possible, one of these pioneer players has been chosen as an example of her type. We read of the first efforts of women to manage and direct. Mademoiselle Clairon brought about the first important reforms in costume on the French stage, and Madame Vestris, in England, was one of the earliest woman directors.

Women are now so well established in these fields that it is difficult to understand the courage and initiative that was necessary to these earlier women. Their struggles have made it possible for the women of today to stand on high pedestals in this field of endeavor. Reading this sympathetic story of these women of unusual character and enterprise, we are made to feel, also, their great charm and loveliness—the heritage of women of all times.

We spend time, effort and money on our personal appearance. Clothing is chosen with regard to line and color. The grooming of the hair and the care of the hands are attended to with thought. Our feet must be shod attractively. We strive to look cultured and refined to the best of our ability. Yet how often is this carefully planned effect marred by an unpleasant voice and careless speech. The voice is the true barometer of culture. In "What Your Voice Reveals," Helen Hathaway, the celebrated teacher of voice culture tells how to correct your faults, improve your tone, and cultivate a pleasing and magnetic speaking voice.

So long as a person remains silent you cannot tell precisely what manner of person he is. The moment he speaks, he gives you that information. Americans as a nation have probably been accused more than any other of having harsh, unpleasant voices. Whether or not that is true, we can by listening to the voices around find there is great room for improvement. If we listen carefully to our own tones, we are disappointed at the lack of music and beauty.

This book is a human interest examination into the American voice, the personal qualities it reveals, and how it may be improved. There are specific suggestions for voice culture. The placing of the tone, shaping of sounds—there are many things to be considered in improving the quality of our voice. A little practice in the correct method of speaking is worth the time and effort in the results achieved. We can help ourselves to truly be the persons of refinement that so long have been our ideals of attainment.

We Judge the Future — Only by the Past

One hundred years of Building and Loan History proves that no other financial institution has had so small a percentage of loss to the investing public as Building and Loan organizations. A few failures, yes; so have there been ships lost at sea, but sea travel is regarded safe. Governments have failed, but does this reflect unfavorably on the United States Government? A large Building and Loan Association with heavy loans in various sections of this and other states may have gotten into trouble, but does this indicate that a local association, making only small loans on property in Orange County, under the personal supervision of men you know, who have invested their own funds in it, can be other than safe?

Nearly 300 S. A. Teachers To Attend N. E. A. Conclave

WILL OBSERVE 'YOUTHS' DAY AT CONVENTION

Tomorrow will be observed as 'Youths' Day' at the session of the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal churches in Southern California, which is being held at Long Beach, and will be featured by special addresses and dinners. It is anticipated that there will be representative group of young people from the Orange county Methodist churches in attendance.

The conference, which began last Tuesday, will come to a close next Wednesday when assignments of pastors to the churches in the conference will be announced by Bishop Frederick D. Lee, in charge of the Omaha area of the church, who is the presiding officer of the conference.

Dr. and Mrs. George Warner, of the First Methodist church here, are attending sessions of the conference, as is A. J. Lasby, who is elected lay delegate to the annual meeting.

High lights on the program tomorrow are: address by J. Hudson Ballard at 2:30 p. m. on "Discovering Ourselves;" U. S. C. banquet at the Y. W. C. A. commencing at 5:30 p. m.; Young People's banquet, at the First Christian church, Fifth and Locust streets, 5:30 p. m.; address, "The Battle Cry of Youth," by Lynn Hough at 8 p. m.

Conference sessions are held at the First Methodist church, Pacific avenue at Fifth street.

Dr. Warner was elected president of the University Club of the conference this week.

Yesterday Was Too Hot To Fight, Anyway

The female members of three Mexican families, all with the same surname, waged a street battle near the gas company plant at 910 East Walnut street yesterday, calling out the police and creating a disturbance. No arrests were made.

T. J. Smith, officer, reported the women engaged in the three family battle were Ruth Magana, 924 East Walnut street; Junita Magana, 910 East Pine street, and Vada Magana, of 912 East Walnut street. They were told to go home, cool off and keep the peace or all would be arrested.

CIGARETS WORTH $800 ARE TAKEN

Cigarettes at wholesale prices, worth $800, together with $50 in cash, were stolen by burglars who entered the wholesale rooms of the Glen L. Clark company, at 220 West Fifth street, some time last night, the police reported today.

Thirteen boxes of cigarettes were taken, or a total of 6,500 packages of different brands.

Entrance into the building was made through a skylight after a glass had been broken. The thieves took their loot out the back door, after breaking the lock from the inside.

Officers H. E. Holmes and T. J. Smith made an investigation of the case.

VETERANS HERE GET $357,650 IN HOME LOANS

Of the $40,000,000 loaned World War veterans in this state for the purchase of farms and homes former soldiers in Orange county have received $357,650 according to statistics recently compiled by George M. Stout, secretary of the Veterans' Welfare Board.

Of the total amount loaned veterans in this county $238,050 went into the purchase of 73 homes and the remaining $119,600 was invested in three farms. In addition to this amount already received and expended scores of veterans have their loan applications on file with the board. These funds will be acted upon in turn when additional funds are available.

According to the board secretary more than 90 per cent of the veterans benefitted thus far are those who admittedly could not have purchased a home or farm without the easy payment plan made possible through the farm and home purchase act.

"It was intended," Stout said, "as a 'lift' to the boys who sacrificed time and jobs at the most inopportune period of their lives, and was intended to avoid, if possible, the crowding of old soldiers' home in the years to come."

The homes acquired have averaged $4,736 in value, while the farms have averaged $5,506. They vary in size and design from the Spanish 5-room casa to the California bungalow.

"As a result of the bond issues approved by the voters of the state, material prosperity will be returned," Stout declared, "in the form of increased building, larger real estate turnover with enhancement of values, and greater confidence of home-owning, home-loving families, whose heads have engaged in the armed forces of the United States in time of war and understand the true meaning of American citizenship."

PERSONAL ITEMS IN ADELE POST ESTATE BRING $640

Confirmation of the sale of personal property from the Adele Ritchie Post estate is sought in a petition which has been filed in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs by Moresby White, Laguna Beach attorney, executor of the will of the former stage beauty who shot and killed herself at Laguna Beach a year ago after fatally shooting her close friend, Doris Murray Palmer.

A total of $640.85 was realized from the sale of a list of silverware, dishes, art objects, glassware and furniture, which is itemized in the petition. Proceeds from the sale are to be used in paying claims against the estate which have been filed and allowed, according to the petition.

The sale was held as private one at the warehouse of the Santa Ana Transfer company last March.

WORK OF PEACE OFFICER TOPIC OF CLUB TALK

Interesting highlights of modern peace officers' work, with science aiding in the apprehension and conviction of criminals, were given to the Santa Ana Lions club yesterday noon, at the regular meeting held at Ketter's cafe. The speaker was Frank P. Gompert, technician of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office.

Gompert outlined the various subdivisions of work of the sheriff's office, which keeps a 1000 men employed in various duties. He explained how bullets were examined by microscope and how by comparison of markings, it can be determined accurately whether or not a certain bullet was fired from a certain gun.

The speaker also told of other work of the scientific laboratory maintained by Sheriff Traeger, including the study of human hair and its division into 21,870 classifications. Equipment of police cars with radio apparatus in Los Angeles has been the greatest step in crime detection, Gompert said, and urged Santa Ana Lions to assist in getting the Orange county board of supervisors thus to modernize cars of Sheriff Logan Jackson's department.

Orval Lyon was chairman of the day yesterday, and an especially large attendance was on hand to greet the new president of the club, Ray Adkinson. In the first meeting of the new year over which he presided.

Musical entertainment was furnished by Shorty Smith and His Gang from the Brea High school, including Smith with the guitar, Bob Angle, violinist, Jack Stewart, Kenny Reynolds and Stanley Logsdon, harmonica artists.

E. Gould is chairman of next week's meeting, assisted by Wayne Goble and John McCarty.

Pays Balance On Funeral Due 30 Years

Despite the fears of many business men that individuals rather than nations would declare a debt moratorium, people are still paying bills. Payment of a bill that is only 30 or 60 days old is appreciated by anyone, but imagine T. E. Winbiger's surprise when a woman at Glendale communicated with him and said she wanted to pay a balance of $35 due on her mother's funeral, held 30 years ago.

Winbiger went through his account books and, believe it or not, there was a $35 balance due. She paid the bill.

Anyone with an aptitude for figures can prove that compound interest on the amount at seven per cent would amount to $286, and that is something to think about in spare moments.

MAIN PROGRAM IN L. A. WILL START MONDAY

A group of 298 teachers from the faculties of the Santa Ana schools is planning to attend the sessions of the National Education association in Los Angeles next week, joining the thousands of delegates from all parts of the United States who participate in the annual summer meetings of the organization. An attendance of over 20,000 is expected, according to reports from Los Angeles.

Preliminary meetings in connection with the convention will be held today and tomorrow, but the main program does not get under way until Monday. Sessions are to be held in the Shrine auditorium, Howard hall at the University of Southern California and the Polytechnic high school.

Some of the outstanding subjects to be considered by the educators of the nation are as follows: "Youth Views Education;" "Relation of Education and Business;" "The Principal and Relationships;" "Enrichment of Life;" "The Next 10 Years in Schools and Rural Life;" and "Education and Auxiliary Agencies."

A special performance of "The Mission Play" will be presented at the Hollywood bowl at 8 p. m. next Wednesday as one of the activities of the convention.

During the sessions of the N. E. A. there will be various group, state and departmental meetings for study and discussion of certain subjects in which those groups are particularly interested.

WILL TO ATTEND DALLAS CONCLAVE

Herbert Hill, member of the firm Hill and Carden, and a national officer in the Phi Sigma fraternity, will leave by train on Monday to attend the national convention of the organization at Dallas, Tex., July 2, 3 and 4.

He will be gone for about 15 days and will go to Oklahoma City on business and to visit friends after the convention.

Hill is a member of the Alpha chapter of the fraternity in Santa Ana. For the past two years has been a national officer and is editor of the national magazine of the organization, "The Escutcheon."

Approaching Wedding Date Announced at Dinner Party

Although friends of Miss Louise Proctor have been aware for the past few weeks of her engagement to Ethan Lunderback, it was not until last evening that they learned the date of the approaching wedding. This was revealed as August 1 at a prettily appointed dinner given by Miss Proctor's mother, Mrs. W. A. Proctor, in their home at 607 East Pine street.

Bidden to the pleasant affair were intimate friends of the bride-elect, together with their mothers. A refreshing yellow and green motif was observed throughout the evening, with the menu itself embodying the chosen tints. Mothers were seated at small tables centered with slender vases of flowers, while the honoree and her girl friends were served at one large table brightened with a low bowl of yellow blossoms and much greenery. Not cups were in both green.

At all places were dainty parcels of rice wrapped in cellophane paper, and tied with yellow ribbons. They were preparatory for the new found brides in their tiny place-card envelopes, reading, "Louise Proctor and Ethan Lunderback, August 1, 1931." In Miss Proctor's envelope was her lovely solitaire, viewed with much admiration by all those present.

Much of the delectable menu was planned by Miss Dorothy Proctor, another daughter of the home. In serving the dinner, she was assisted by one of her friends, Miss Mary King. Later in the evening Dorothy entertained with a piano solo by Chamblaine, after which her aunt, Miss Gladys Neff of Anaheim, played several numbers, with guests joining in group singing.

Mr. Lunderback is the son of Mrs. Ivy D. Lunderback, 1123 West First street, this city.

Church Mother's Club Has Annual Picnic

Members of the Mother's club of the First Congregational church, together with their children, held their annual picnic Wednesday evening, with Irvine park as the setting for the affair. This was the last meeting of the season.

Mrs. Katherine Marble was in charge of arrangements for the evening meal, which was a supervised covered-dish meal. Plans were made for the meetings to be held in the fall, after which a social time took place. About 20 were present.

Luncheon Guests Enjoy Scenic Effects of Sudden Storm

When Mrs. B. H. Sharpless, Mrs. J. Frank Burke, and her daughter, Mrs. Loyal K. King, planned details of the bridge luncheon which they joined in giving yesterday in the Burke home on Panorama Heights, they never suspected that Nature was going to add the pageantry of a storm to their hospitality. But shortly after the guests assembled for the 1 o'clock luncheon, storm clouds began gathering over the sea where Catalina Island and even San Clemente Island, loomed into clear view.

From the vantage point of the hillcrest home, the entire coastal plain, swept by sheets of silver rain, lay below like the scene in an amphitheater, and the whole effect was indescribably beautiful. Small tables were arranged in the drawing room so that each one commanded a special view, and both the luncheon hour and the subsequent bridge session were made doubly enjoyable by the unexpected rain.

The hostess trio had the assistance of Mrs. Lawrence Von Schrititz (Ada Marie Pelkney) in greeting the guests, and of Mrs. E. W. Spruance and Mrs. Emmett Elliott, in checking arrivals. Quantities of bright-hued flowers were used in decorations. And luncheon tables were centered with low bowls, some of rare old Sandwich glass, filled with small blossoms in pastel colorings. Later these were grouped on the mantel above the big fireplace, where they made a charming line of color.

Quaint little color prints from Godey's Lady's Book were reproduced on the tally cards, and when these were checked at the close of the bridge session, the desirable prize awards were made to Mrs. F. C. Rowland, Mrs. E. W. Spruance and Mrs. Adam Zaiser. Gifts were wrapped and tied with gauze ribbons in pastel hues to harmonize with the flowers.

There were ten tables in play at yesterday's hospitality and Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Sharpless and Mrs. King will entertain an equal number of their friends tomorrow when they present the second of their parties. This also will be in the Burke home on Panorama Heights.

Eastern Star

Santa Ana Chapter Tuesday night's meeting of Eastern Star, made especially interesting by initiation and by guests. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Barker were received by affiliation, and among visitors were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lambert of Laguna Beach.

Members were interested in the invitation received from Silver Cord Masonic lodge to a barbecue supper and park party scheduled for Monday night, June 29, in Irvine park. The Masons are planning all details of the supper to be served at 6:30 o'clock, and chapter members were informed that all they were required to bring for the occasion, were their individual needs in table service. Dancing in the park pavilion will complete the hospitality.

There were many members out for the stated meeting and after business was concluded all repaired to the banquet room where Mrs. Jack Willey and her efficient committee had arranged for a pleasant refreshment hour, with quantities of bright flowers to deck the tables. Ray Spangh was entertainment chairman, and introduced a series of games that served to keep the hilarious crowd in gales of laughter for the remainder of the merry evening.

The grain ships, for the most part, are old windjammers, some of the few that are still afloat. Despite their antiquity, however, they all made fast on the trip up. The four-masted Herzogin Cecilie has been known to sail more than 17 miles an hour, which is considerably faster than the average steamer's time.

"Unusual" Details Are Apparent in Pretty Garden Party

California's favorite adjective of "unusual" in describing the weather, was declared to be the correct word to apply to the delightful garden party at which Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger entertained yesterday in her home at 207 East Ninth street. For while the cordial hospitality expressed by Mrs. Winbiger was quite the same as usual, the setting afforded by her secluded garden was out of the ordinary, and then, when the sudden unexpected storm arose, and the festivity had to be transferred to the home and the wide sheltered porch, that was quite the most unusual feature of all, and the most unexpected.

Luncheon was doubly enjoyable because of the growing flowers, tall baskets of gladioluses, hydrangeas, asters and mixed blossoms, the shade cast by a soaring pecan tree (one of the most magnificent trees in the city) and the tables invitingly arranged under bright-hued umbrellas. Each table was in an individual color from the lilac and central bouquet, to the butterflies hovering above the flowers, and miniature butterfly place cards. The menu continued the floral motif and the final course offered flower-decked petits fours and ice cream moulded in the forms and colors of roses, chrysanthemums, St. John lilies and tiger lilies.

Even after the storm arose and tables had to be moved within doors the illusion of a garden remained, so lovely were the blossoms adorning the spacious rooms.

Mrs. Elmer Barr Burns, Mrs. Thomas H. Willets, Miss Elizabeth Baker, and Little Miss Elizabeth Winbiger assisted throughout the afternoon, as did Mrs. Winbiger's aunt, Mrs. Eunice Horton and her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. M. Cate of Long Beach.

When the dainty parchment tables were collected and checked, it was learned that Mrs. J. H. Metzgar held high score, so to her was awarded the wrought-iron wall standard with its graceful bowl, filled for the occasion with pompon dahlias in exquisite colors.

Other gifts were in equal harmony with the garden theme, and to Mrs. Samuel M. Davis was presented a potted geranium, so perfect in color and form that it was difficult to believe that it was the product of art rather than nature. A set of garden markers each surmounted by a life-like bird in brilliant hues, was third prize, awarded Mrs. S. W. Stanley.

Among the guests sharing the afternoon were Mrs. Leopold Goepfer and her sister, Mrs. Nellie Hatch, who had been girlhood friends of Mrs. H. M. Cate in Santa Ana, and their reunion was an especially happy one.

Yesterday's party was the first of a duo of all fresco affairs in the Winbiger garden, the second to be a luncheon and bridge of Tuesday June 30, when Mrs. Winbiger and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Winbiger, will be co-hostesses.

Let's see about the grapes: ripe grapes should be washed, so that the maximum of grape sugar will be obtained. Look over the bunches once, strip from the larger and put the unstemmed through several baths of water. Drain them, put in kettles and crush well, or a low fire to heat slowly, release the juices, then in the heat and boil hard for 10 minutes. Turn the contents into a jelly bag out of boiling water, and let drip as for jelly.

It is wisdom to buy a simple bottle capping machine, one can be bought that costs less than a dollar, patent tops and good bottles. Exclude both air and bacteria, and the grape juice will not spoil. TODAY'S RECIPE

Sardines Croole (For Four)

2 cans sardines
4 slices buttered toast
1 can cream of tomato soup
1/4 cup of grated cheese
Seasonings.

If the sardines are to be a minor part of the meal you will find two of the small cans sufficient, but if the family appetite is clamoring for food and lots of it, I would suggest buying the larger type of domestic sardine. That means more toast and a little more sauce. The sauce you can piece out by adding flour and butter to the heated cream of tomato, thinning it to the right point with some of the tomato juice cocktail I hope you keep on hand all the time.

Place the toast on a baking platter (glass, maybe), arrange the sardines on the toast and slip them into a hot oven to heat a bare minute; pour the hot tomato sauce over, sprinkle with cheese, a speck of cayenne, and then under the broiler flame to brown the cheese quickly. Serve with a garnish of lemon slices and parsley.

If your family has regard for its waist line, you'd better stick

MICKEY (HIMSELF) MC GUIRE AND GANG

Here are a number of the Mickey McGuire kiddies with Mickey himself in the center with the tattered derby. They will appear in person at the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow afternoon for the Mickey Mouse Club of Santa Ana and its first time that Santa Ana children have had an opportunity to meet Mickey and his gang. The screen stars will stage an act of their own.

CHILD STAR COMES TO S. A. TOMORROW

Mickey (himself) McGuire, young star of the series of Radio comedies bearing his name, and who is to personally appear at the West Coast theater Saturday is America's best known boy. Correctly termed "Young America's Best Pal," Mickey is all-boy, playing as a boy should, thinking the thoughts of boyhood, and portraying upon the screen the activities of a healthy-minded youngster.

Mickey is now 8 years old. For four years he has been appearing in one series of comedies. They are Larry Darmour's Mickey (himself) McGuire comedies, based on the Toonerville cartoons of Fontaine Fox, and released by Radio Pictures. He has been Mickey (himself) McGuire since the first day this character evolved itself in motion pictures. So closely has he been identified with the character that he is now definitely known by the series name, and will probably remain Mickey (himself) McGuire for the rest of his days.

If ever a child was cradled on the stage and screen it is this same youngster. His mother and father were musical-comedy favorites, and at the very early age of nine months Mickey showed the inclination of talent that he now possesses. Standing on the stage of the theaters in which his parents appeared, the infant would toddle and sway to the tempo of the music being played.

DOROTHY MACKAIL IN 'PARTY HUSBAND'

The audience at the Fox West Coast theater last night, gave enthusiastic approval to Miss Dorothy Mackail in her latest and most brilliant portrayal. Everybody remembered gratefully her dashing characterization of the "Office Wife" and marveled at her ability.

In "Party Husband," she is cast as an ultra-modern bride who believes that she should keep her individuality though married—should take a place in the business world—and fraternize with the people who are congenial, whoever they happen to be. All goes well, at first, for her husband is of the same opinion. Laura gets a job with a publishing house, Jay arranges programs for radio broadcasting and all seems well—till a busy lady by the name of Bee—succeeds in faintly stinging Laura's pet theory by bibulous attentions to Jay. Laura's employer goes with her to a distant city, presumably on business—Jay hotfoot it after—and pandemonium breaks loose—which is just a hint of the story. Laura gets a job with a publishing house, Jay arranges programs for radio broadcasting and all seems well—till a busy lady by the name of Bee—succeeds in faintly stinging Laura's pet theory by bibulous attentions to Jay. Laura's employer goes with her to a distant city, presumably on business—Jay hotfoot it after—

HAIL 'SMART MONEY' AS ROBINSON'S BEST

Edward G. Robinson, whose genius for dynamic characterization was so perfectly demonstrated in "Little Caesar"—quits gunning and takes to gaming in "Smart Money"—which was written by those masters of the melodramatic, Kubec Glasmon and John Bright, who did "The Public Enemy," which recently brought James Cagney into the small company of the elect of talking pictures.

The picture opened at the Fox Broadway theater last night. Mr. Robinson plays the part of Nick the Greek, a small town barber who runs crap-games in the room back of his tony parlor—and considers life to be nothing else than one glorious round of gambling and girls—the latter to be, without exception, of blonde persuasion. Nick has delusions of grandeur, and to make them come true, he beats it to the big town to look up the big shots in the gaming field, and to begin his operations. The first blonde he meets double-crosses him. She gets him in touch with, not the king of the sharpers, as he had hoped, but one of the lesser fry.

Blondes are always bobbing up and out—and Nick finally meets the czar, trims him at poker—and so grows in power and possessions. His finish is in the making—when he takes in a blonde who has been trying to commit suicide—but that is the story—a vital part at least of a story which holds the spectator spell-bound from the strange beginning to the startling climax.

"RIVER'S END" AT WALKER'S TODAY

James Oliver Curwood, whose novel "River's End" has been adapted to the talking screen by Warner Bros., is the feature attraction at Walker's State theater. "River's End" is generally considered Curwood's most dramatic story. Into it he has woven a golden romance and there is a stirring plot of danger, daring and suspense against a background of natural beauty which cannot be surpassed in any other part of the world.

Charles Bickford, noted portrayer of he-men, plays a dual role. Evelyn Knapp, J. Farrell McDonald, David Torrence, Junior, Coghlan, Zasu Pitts, Walter McGrail and Tom Santschi are members of the impressive cast.

The story of the man who could not prove himself a gentleman without proving himself a murderer, and who could only clear himself of murder by letting the world think him a cad, makes an extremely powerful screen play.

BLOOD PRESSURE MAY BE REDUCED

High blood pressure is not only dangerous, but entails suffering which often is needless. But you can get rid of the kidney and bladder weakness, blinding headaches, back-break pains and torturing nerve tension while reducing pressure.

Ask your druggist for a box of Wildunger Tee, which contains valuable mineral salts from the famous Wildunger Bad in Germany. Unless the very first box brings grateful, comforting relief, your money back.

A New York doctor while traveling in Germany was so impressed with the results thousands were securing from this great kidney and bladder activator that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country. Many American doctors now prescribe it and report that its benefits are equally surprising here.

You can get Wildunger Tee on the distinct understanding that unless it helps, your money will be refunded to you. It may be had at C. S. Kelley, druggist, 101 East 4th street, Santa Ana.—Adv.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

HONEY OATMEAL DROP COOKIES

1 cup flour
2 cups oatmeal
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup honey
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sweet milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 level teaspoons baking powder
1 cup nut meats

Cream butter, honey and sugar together thoroughly; then add milk and mix well. Sift flour once before measuring; then add flour sifted at least twice together with the baking powder, soda and salt. Add next the oatmeal and nuts mixed together; chopped raisins and lastly the vanilla. Drop from a spoon on a greased shallow baking pan about an inch and a half apart. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven.

HONEY ALMOND ROLLS

Cream together 1/4 cupful butter and 1/2 cupful honey. Add 2 beaten egg yolks, 1 cupful of pastry flour, 1 1/3 cupful finely chopped almonds. Mix thoroughly. Shape the dough into rolls about 3 inches long and as thick as a finger. Brush with honey and bake at 400 degrees F. about 15 minutes.

HONEY ORANGE NUT COOKIES

1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoonful baking powder

1/2 cup honied orange strips (as prepared for orange bread)
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoonful orange juice

Cream shortening, honey together; add eggs well beaten. Sift flour and baking powder together. Add first mixture; then add nuts and orange juice and honied orange strips. Drop from a spoon on greased pan about two inches apart. Sprinkle with nuts and orange strips and bake in hot oven. Will make about 30 cookies.

HONEY BEVERAGES

Honey can be satisfactorily used for sweetening lemonade and other fruit drinks. It is more convenient for this purpose than sugar, and when charged water is used, it has a further advantage since it has less tendency to expell the gas. Housewives should keep a home-made syrup for this purpose, especially in hot weather.

HONEY LEMONADE

Two tablespoonsful lemon juice mixed with two tablespoons honey. Add one cup spring water or charged water. Pour in iced tea glass filled with cracked ice.

HOT HONEY LEMONADE

Hot honey lemonade is particularly valuable in relieving the gripe. When suffering from a cold, take a hot honey lemonade just before retiring.

Four tablespoonsful lemon juice mixed with 4 tablespoonsful honey. Add 1 cup boiling water. Drink hot.

HONEY TEA ICED

To 1 cup hot tea (brewed as regularly for iced tea) add 1 teaspoonful lemon juice and 2 tablespoonsful honey. Mix well and pour in glass of cracked ice.

HONEY FRUIT LEMONADE

To 1 cup honey lemonade add 6 tablespoonsful orange juice, 1 tablespoonful pineapple juice and 1 tablespoonful fresh crushed strawberries, which have been sweetened with 1 tablespoonful honey, pour in iced tea glass filled with cracked ice.

HONEY FRESH ORANGEADE

For each serving (iced tea glass size), 6 tablespoonsful orange juice, 1 tablespoonful lemon juice, 2 tablespoonsful honey.

Mix fruit juices and honey thoroughly. Then add 1 cup spring or charged water. Fill iced tea glass with cracked ice, pour over mixture and let stand three minutes before serving.

HONEY FRUIT PUNCH

1 cup honey
1 chopped banana
1 cup chopped pineapple
1 large orange crushed to pulp
1/2 cup preserved cherries
1/2 quart grape juice

Pour over ice—stand 20 minutes—then serve.

PETROLLE WINS BY KAYO OVER SUAREZ

NEW YORK, June 26.—(UP)—Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, had a clear track towards the world's lightweight championship today after his nine-round knockout of Justo Suarez at Madison Square Garden last night in one of the greatest fights of this or any other season.

The victory clearly established Petrolle as the ranking contender for Tony Canzone's title and convinced 14,000 spectators that not only Petrolle but his victim also is destined ultimately to attain the championship.

horse" in the Wimbledon tourney. A temporary weakening of his forehead play gave Boussus the second set but the southpaw's vicious drives to the corners flailed to upset Van Ryn's robot-like steadiness and he rallied to score an easy triumph.

His backhanders skimmed the net and he peppered the chalk lines with shots which frequently caught Boussus flat footed.

Nigel Sharpe, England, who eliminated the favorite, Henri Cochet, France, in the opening round, met defeat today at the hands of his countryman, G. P. Hughes. The scores were 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Frank Shields, who already has won the unofficial title as "hand-some man in the tournament," thrilled the 14,000 spectators who packed the center court stands with brilliant backhand placements against Oliffe. He completely outclassed Oliffe and made him look like a novice at the game.

America's chief hope in the women's singles, Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, California, advanced to the fourth round with a 6-0, 6-4 victory over Miss Olive Webb, England.

The Californian meets Miss Betty Nuthall, England's ranking player in the fourth round. Miss Nuthall defeated Mrs. Harper in the final round of the American women's singles championship last year, and is favored to repeat.

of Great Britain against Bill Burke and "Wilfy" Cox. The Americans were expected to win.

While the teams, inherently, may be of equal potentialities, the United States players were using their own ballroom ball, were playing under hot weather conditions to which they are accustomed, and were competing on a course with which many of them are quite familiar.

A SUDDEN CHANGE

It is remarkable how changes come about and so quickly!

Along about the early part of June we recall that President Hoover was quoted as declaring that whatever Great Britain and the other nations did in regard to Germany's reparations debts, the Allied debts must be paid to the United States.

At that time, there was no suggestion of a moratorium. In fact, commenting on that situation, The Register said, in part, on June 9th:

The heads of our own government do not propose to let Germany's situation affect the payment of war debts due the United States. The money which the United States has been receiving, or which she has been promised from other countries, is received in turn by such countries as Great Britain, from Germany.

It is entirely possible that should the nations, notably Great Britain, which owe America, attempt to pay by adding to their burden of taxation, they would not be far removed from the condition which confronts Germany.

A two-year moratorium at least would avoid the serious consequences now. As to whether the countries would be in better shape to meet the difficulty then is problematical. Certainly the farther one is removed from the period when the debt is incurred, the less strong appear the obligations to meet it.

One wondered how all this was going to end, because it looked like revolution in Germany unless something was done. And that something must be done by the large creditor of all the nations.

In the meantime, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had seen Ramsay MacDonald and they had a talk. We suspect that Mr. Mellon talked with President Hoover. Then came the suggestion from him of a moratorium on the payment of debts for one year. And how it changed the whole aspect of things!

We are of the opinion that this change came about not primarily because of the year, in fact, a year is a very short period of time in the life of nations and in the life of debts of nations. But it is the first evidence that the government of the United States has shown, since the war, of a real disposition toward leniency on the debt situation. And all of the national debtors were galvanized into life through the hope that was inspired.

This hope has control of business and it is affecting all people. It is wonderful what the suggestion has done, and even France, which probably would gain the least, has put in one slight condition, and she will join in. That condition is that Germany shall be required to continue during the moratorium, the payment of 42 per cent of the reparations classed as unconditional and unpostponable, and this amount when paid shall be loaned back to Germany for her uses.

Of course, France is endeavoring by this to keep the Young plan in operation. But certainly this will not be an absolute bar to the carrying out of the program. Business throughout the world is now picking up. Concessions and friendliness are helpful.

TWO DENOMINATIONS UNITE

The formal merger of the Congregational denomination and the Christian Church, which took place yesterday at Seattle, is an additional evidence of the essential unity of Protestantism in America.

The Christian Church which has united with the Congregationalists is not to be confused with the "Christian Church," so-called, here in Santa Ana. The "Christian" church here in Santa Ana is officially named the "Disciples of Christ." There is a different denomination of little more than a million souls in the United States whose official title is "The Christian Church." These are the ones who have united with the Congregationalist people.

It is possible that the Disciples of Christ, if the name Christian as a denomination is abandoned by this group, might officially change their name from the "Disciples of Christ" to the "Christian Church."

This merger of the two bodies completes a merger that has been in operation, their missionary work having been carried on for some years under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. This merger, and if others should follow, will have a wholesome effect upon the work of their foreign missionaries. The divisions among Protestant denominations are impossible for the un-Christian groups of Asia to understand. Indeed, when we think about it ourselves, we cannot understand it.

Never having known anything else, we take it now as a matter of course, but the reason for the divisions in many cases, have already been done away with, and there is no excuse for these divisions now between many of our denominations.

It may be that the rivalry has been helpful in some cases, but religious work that is carried on in that spirit is not of the highest value.

HOW IT WORKS

Fifteen years ago an educational institution received a gift of $500,000 for a memorial building. The character of the building was specified, and the trustees under the will were directed to see to it that such a building was built. During the intervening years the trustees of the will and the trustees of the educational institution have been unable to agree on the kind of a building that was intended, and in the intervening years the amount of the bequest has doubled.

An agreement was reached a short time ago, and plans were drawn up for a building to cost nearly a million dollars; but when the trustees looked into their portfolio they found that the securities in which they had invested the money had shrunk to a present value of less than half a million. The result is that no building will be built until the securities get back to the values at which they were purchased.

This incident illustrates the problem that industrial society is confronting in getting back to normalcy. Building costs have been greatly reduced, but invested capital has shrunk more, and people are hesitating about selling their holdings to start new construction because of the huge deflation in values. We suspect that most of the building that is being done today is done out of dividends or earnings; and since earnings and dividends have suffered severe curtailment, an invested capital is being held for a rise in prices, there is a delay in new construction.

That is the difficulty with depressions. Capital is timid because of the decrease of consuming power. And many who are able to buy still are fearful about doing so lest the evil day may come to them when they will need their money for ordinary subsistence.

NOW THIS IS HELPFUL

Now here is something really new and practical. And how! A man in Rahway, New Jersey, has played the first game of golf to be played with the assistance of the autogiro. Guy Miller was the man and the Locust Grove Golf Club was the scene of this revolutionizing event. During the nine-hole game, Miller used his autogiro to follow his ball around the course.

How funny we will all look, at first, equipped with the autogiro hopping around the golf course! We wonder whether the autogiro could not be used for the tennis game, too. We can't quite figure how that would be possible but have referred the matter to the sports editor, with the utmost confidence in a rosy future for lazy folks.

It has been said that most of the inventions of the world have been figured out by lazy folks. Therefore, more power to them.

Are Pickers Popovers Next?

Christian Science Monitor
And now the United States bureau of fisheries announces the prospect of making biscuit out of fish. Modern research is doing all sorts of things to tradition. The Egyptians who stripped layers from the papyrus to write upon would have smiled unbelievably at any proposal to make paper out of ground wood pulp. But now paper is made not only from wood, but also from such other vegetable growth as cornstalks and asparagus stems. One need not be surprised to hear of a process by which last summer's excess wheat crop may be turned into public libraries.

But to get back to fish biscuit. Fish cookies already are an accomplished fact, and they are very good cookies, according to the bureau. To be sure, the fish is first converted into flour, but nevertheless the fish is there. Development of fish flour is expected to add $1,500,000 or more annually to the value of the American fisheries.

The bureau does not announce the particular kind of fish which has been dried and ground into meal for human consumption, but it may be fair to assume that if one kind of fish makes flour, other kinds will do the same. Hence one may be scanning the morning menu for mackerel muffins, or trout toast, or pickers popovers. Even the manufacturing bakers may depart from their traditional varieties and announce the appearance of something like the Bluefish brand of breakfast biscuit and butterfish bread.

Airplanes Dangerous When They Fly Over Crowds

San Bernardino Sun
It is to be hoped that the quick action following President Hoover's complaint against the aviators who flew low over the crowd at the Harding memorial dedication exercises will serve to lessen that sort of folly. The three pilots involved in that exhibition of bad flying judgment and bad manners have been "put on the ground" for the time being, where they may meditate upon their act and its punishment and where they may serve as an example to other fliers inclined to pull off similar stunts.

Flying low over outdoor gatherings is always dangerous and seldom necessary. Air regulations in many communities forbid it. It is dangerous to the crowds on the ground and to the people in the plane, for it allows no space for maneuvering and landing safely in case of emergency. The noise of the motors interrupts speakers and clashes with music.

Not every protest against this sort of thing gets results as promptly as did the President's. But if his protest tightens up enforcement of this regulation generally, it will benefit everybody.

Digging Into Words

Burbank Daily Review
If you just sit and look at one printed word for a little while it will seem to jump at you and the real peculiarity of its pronunciation, its meaning and its fitness will be impressed upon your mind as never before. Plate, leather, leaf, dance—why were those words chosen to mean exactly what they do mean?

Of course, when we were children, we used to be told that the word zebra was invented just so the letter z could be included in our alphabet. And many words seem not to have much more significance than that. But there are whole regiments of words, right on this page, in this column, or in any reading matter, that comes before your eye, that have a history, a tradition or a custom hidden behind them.

Take a word occasionally and dig into it. It is a goodly game, and you'll lose nothing by the knowledge you acquire.

JUSTIFIABLE PREJUDICE

Most snakes, I'm told are innocent,
And cherish no malign intent
To set upon us from beneath,
And strike us with their venomous teeth.

For long this coiling, writhing race
Has held a very evil place

Because some members of the gang
Are black of heart and swift of fang,

And when they meet us on the pike
Will never hesitate to strike.

The genus we should not condemn
Because a very few of them

May cherish a dislike for man,
And will destroy him if they can.

But there is something in their stare
The while they rear their heads in air

Which, though our judgment be unjust,
Breeds in our minds a deep distrust.

And though their eager friends may claim
That they deserve a better fame,

The average self protecting man
Will kill one every time he can.

Remember, Adam's big mistake
Was being friendly to a snake.

"The Bad Lands"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

We are passing through "The Bad Lands" of Montana. The scenery is marvelous, but we don't like the way the Railroad plays it up. The description sounds too much like the business history we have just been passing through.

The Bad Lands, we are told, originally appear to have been a level plain. Then the elements ran riot, tearing up the ground in furrows, and tossing up huge mounds and bastion-like precipices. Where once was a gently rolling country, cliffs and peaks arose, and then the valleys were strewn with petrified forests.

This picture of widespread chaos, of scorched dunes, of splintered peaks and torn gullies, of sublime desolation, is a panoramic composite of the northern national park wonderland. This is the ominous south-western desert—a geological nightmare—a grotesque work of art chiseled by nature.

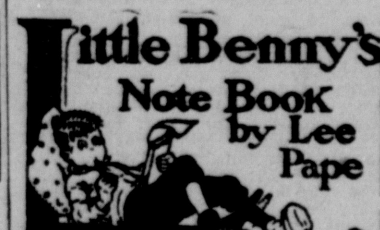

Such is Pyramid Park, commonly called the Bad Lands.

Such, also, is the pathological nightmare, commonly called the Business Cycle. Where once was a gently rolling curve of industrial activity, something ran riot. Peaks arose. Then valleys were formed and the valleys were strewn with petrified business enterprises.

The Bad Lands, no doubt, are the result of natural law. So is the Business Cycle, we are told. What goes up, must come down. To every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction. What can anybody do about that?

Much. And the first thing to do is to stop laying all the blame on God. The present business depression is not the result of natural law. It is the result of specific acts of men. Until we fully understand that, we are not likely to take the necessary steps to prevent another business nightmare.

Us fellows gave Puds Simkins a surprise party last night in honor of his birthday and also to have some fun ourselves, the important thing being to keep Puds from knowing anything about it till the fellows was all in his house, so I was suppose to call him up on the telephone at 5 minutes to 8 and at 8 o'clock all the rest of the fellows was suppose to sneak in his house while he was upstairs tawking on the phone unsuspecting.

And at a quarter to 8 I stood alongside of the telephone waiting for 5 minutes to 8, and as soon as it came I quick called up Puds number and he answered himself on account of his mother properly having sent him, me saying, Hello, is this you, Puds?

Yes, whose this? Puds sed.
Try to guess, I sed. Just saying that to keep him longer and not being able to think of anything else to say, and he sed, I don't haft to guess, I know who it is, its Benny Potts.

Gess again, I said. Thinking, G. I wish I'd thawt up something to say in advance, and Puds sed, go on, what is this, a joke? And I sed, No, you gessed it all rite, how did you gess?

Hay, look a heer, I was reading a exciting book, Puds sed. Meaning I was waiting his time, and I sed, Well wait a minnit cant you, I want to tell you something.

Well go ahead then, I'm listening, Puds sed, and I sed, What's the news?

What news? Puds sed, and I sed, Any news, good nite there's always some news.
Then go and read it in the paper, I'm going to hang up, Puds sed, and I sed, Well wait a minnit, just a second, I want to look for something I want to show you, I mean tell you, just a minnit now, hold the fone.

What the heck? Puds sed. Me not answering on account of pretending I wasnt there any more, and after about 5 minnits Puds got tired of saying Hello, hello and hung up, me thinking, G. I hope the fellows are inside by this time, anyways.

And I quick ran around, and they was.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

June 26, 1917

District Attorney L. A. West today gave orders that Anaheim clean up its sewer farm.

Mrs. Emrys D. White, 624 South Broadway, was hostess to her auction bridge club yesterday afternoon, using a patriotic decorative scheme.

Mrs. Albert J. Padgham has been honored with the appointment of the Southern State chairman of music of the California Federation of Women's clubs.

A drunken Mexican who last night crawled on to the back screen porch on a cot there, gave Mrs. L. M. Gilmore, 335 McFadden street, a bad fright this morning when she awakened to find him sleeping there.

The annual outing of the Women's club, which is ever an enjoyable event, was held in Orange County Park yesterday.

Declaring that he has not the time to give to the duties of the office, J. M. Clever has resigned as a city trustee of Fullerton.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

ROMANTIC OPPORTUNITY

Some day I should like to compile an anthology of dead words and defunct phrases.

I do not mean words and phrases that have become obsolete and unused.

I mean words and phrases that no longer mean what they once meant but are still going strong in the national vocabulary.

In this anthology I am sure the phrase "equality of opportunity" should have a place.

No phrase in our national vocabulary is in more urgent need of reinterpretation than this phrase.

We know, of course, that men are not born equal.

Mankind brings to life a medley of capacities different in kind and in degree.

And nothing, it has been sagely said, so quickly reveals the inequality of men as equality of opportunity.

To grant to a man with two legs and to a man with one leg equality of opportunity to compete in a foot-race means nothing.

To grant to a blind man and to a man with eagle eyes equality of opportunity to compete in a rifle contest is but to mock the blind man.

There is no such thing as equality of opportunity in the abstract. And identity of opportunity is wasteful to society and meaningless to the individual.

The only thing that means anything in aptness of opportunities. We must rethink the doctrine of equality in terms of specific opportunities for specific individuals, at least in terms of specific opportunities for specific types of individuals.

And this has never been quite as important as now when we are trying to beat our way back from depression to prosperity.

And the old phrases about opportunity will doubtless be brightened up and brought out for display during the 1932 campaign; we shall hear much about the need of guaranteeing equality of opportunity to all men and all women.

Let's demand that our leaders give us a realistic rather than a romantic doctrine of equality!

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

DAYDREAMING

Who has not taken refuge in a beautiful dream. When things have pressed too hard, when the world has been too much with us, we have slipped away into a realm of beauty, of exquisite peace and godlike power, and been at rest.

After a visit among the castles we have returned to earth, with a sigh for the vanished glory, but with a sense of relief. We have gathered strength, perhaps a vision, that enables us to go on and build with better grace.

Children find this world a hard place. They are strangers here and do not know the way of people. They are asked to do strange and difficult things and life becomes a burden to gail their backs.

"Work harder. Think. Think. This is no way to do. Get to work and show me something worth while here. Lazy bones, why are you dreaming here?"

Poor child. For a moment he has slipped away into that pleasant place where there is no demand for work, the place where there is no pain, no worry, and no prodding voice. Conscience never enters dreamland. It too, is happily excluded.

Too well I know that too much dreaming will not answer. If we wear a path to the dreamplace we are likely to follow it and ignore all other ways. That way sorrow lies. It is well to rest when weary but too much rest ends in that long silence that the soul of men must shun.

Deal gently with the daydreaming child. Before you drive him out of paradise consider well why he has hidden himself there. What was it from which he fled? Was it you? Have you driven him too hard? Have you tried to send him along a road that he could not see? Have you laid too heavy a load upon him? Why did he shut life's door behind him and retreat to the silence?

You must answer the question before you have the answer to the child's problem. Dragging him out will not help you for he holds the key to that dreamplace and uses it even while you thunder in his ears.

How well is this child? Is he struggling along with an ailing body? It is very hard to live triumphantly when your bones ache and your feet are all lumps of lead. It is impossible to find joy in a stiff lesson when your head feels like a bursting cabbage. Set the child's physical house in order first and he will have the power to help himself a little.

Then see what state his mental house is in and clean it well. Let the sweet breeze of laughter blow through it, let the warm sunshine of love warm it, let cheerfulness shine and love reign in it. As he thinks in his heart so is he.

A happy successful child will not escape from reality often. Once in a while, just for a restful vacation perhaps, a moment or two of pleasant wandering, but no more. Protect and cherish the dreamer. He needs help.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

ARRIVAL OF U. S. TROOPS

On June 26, 1917, the first contingents of the first United States army to fight in Europe arrived in France, under the command of Major General William L. Sibert. News that the Americans were arriving spread rapidly and by the time the troopships arrived alongside the wharves where the men were to be debarked, thousands of persons were on hand to greet them.

A wild welcome was shrieked by whistles of craft in the harbor and the welcoming throng burst into song. The American soldiers were spontaneously dubbed "Sammies" by the excited French crowds, to distinguish them from the British "Tommies".

General Sibert took up his quarters at a camp not distant from the coast as commander of the first United States force sent abroad, under General Pershing as commander-in-chief.
